

Data Privacy and Information Handling Policy

Effective Date: January 1, 2026 | Last Updated: February 2026

Introduction

AICT Global Services Inc. ("AICT", "we", "our", "us") is committed to protecting the privacy of personal information. This Privacy Policy explains how we collect, use, disclose, and protect personal information in connection with our certification services and website operations.

AICT operates in compliance with the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) and applicable British Columbia privacy legislation, including the Personal Information Protection Act (PIPA).

Information We Collect

We may collect the following categories of personal information:

Through Our Website

- Name, email address, organization name, and message content when you submit a contact form
- Limited technical data such as IP address and browser type (collected automatically through standard web server logs). These logs are used solely for operational security and website reliability monitoring.

Through Certification Activities

- Names, roles, and contact information of personnel involved in certified management systems
- Professional qualifications and competence information of auditors and technical experts
- Information contained in management system documentation reviewed during audits
- Audit evidence and findings, which may include references to individuals
- Complaint and appeal information, including the identity of complainants and appellants

How We Use Personal Information

We use personal information for the following purposes:

- Responding to inquiries and contact form submissions
- Processing certification applications and conducting audits
- Making certification decisions
- Maintaining the public certificate directory (limited to organization name, certification scope, dates, and status)
- Processing complaints and appeals
- Maintaining auditor and personnel competence records

- Meeting legal and regulatory requirements, including accreditation requirements
- Maintaining and improving the reliability and security of our website and certification services

Legal Basis for Processing

AICT processes personal information on the basis of consent, contractual necessity, and legal or accreditation obligations.

Disclosure of Personal Information

AICT does not sell, rent, or trade personal information. We may disclose personal information in the following limited circumstances:

- Accreditation bodies: The Standards Council of Canada or other accreditation bodies may review certification records as part of their oversight of AICT's operations.
- Public certificate directory: Organization-level information (not personal information of individuals) is published in our public directory as required by ISO/IEC 17021-1.
- Legal requirements: Where required by law, court order, or regulatory authority.
- Consent: Where the individual has provided explicit consent.

Confidentiality in Certification

AICT maintains strict confidentiality regarding all information obtained during the certification process. This is a core requirement of ISO/IEC 17021-1. All AICT personnel, auditors, contractors, and committee members are bound by confidentiality agreements. Client-specific information is never disclosed to other clients or to the public, except as described in this policy and the certification agreement.

Certification records, including audit reports and supporting evidence, are treated as confidential and are accessible only to authorized AICT personnel and, where required, the relevant accreditation body.

Data Security

We implement appropriate technical and organizational measures to protect personal information against unauthorized access, alteration, disclosure, or destruction. These measures include access controls, encryption of sensitive data in transit, secure storage of records, and regular review of security practices.

Sensitive information transmitted through the website is protected using industry-standard encryption protocols.

AICT maintains procedures for responding to data security incidents and will notify affected individuals and regulators where required by law.

Data Storage and Location

AICT stores certification records, website data, and personal information on secure systems located in Canada. Where service providers or infrastructure are used in other jurisdictions, AICT ensures that comparable data protection safeguards are in place and that such arrangements comply with applicable Canadian privacy legislation.

Where information is processed outside Canada, AICT ensures appropriate safeguards consistent with Canadian privacy law.

Retention

We retain personal information only for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it was collected, including to meet legal, regulatory, and accreditation record-keeping requirements. Certification records are retained for a minimum period following the end of the certification cycle, as required by ISO/IEC 17021-1 and accreditation requirements.

Certification records are retained for at least one full certification cycle or longer where required by accreditation rules.

Your Rights

Under Canadian privacy law, you have the right to:

- Request access to the personal information we hold about you
- Request correction of inaccurate personal information
- Withdraw consent for the use of your personal information (subject to legal and contractual limitations)
- File a complaint about our privacy practices

To exercise these rights, please contact us using the information below.

Cookies and Website Analytics

Our website may use essential technical cookies required for basic website functionality and security. We do not use tracking cookies or third-party advertising technologies. If we implement analytics in the future, this policy will be updated accordingly, and users will be notified.

Changes to This Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time. Changes will be posted on our website with an updated effective date. We encourage you to review this policy periodically.
